

Bulletin Boards and More!

FANG-TASTIC

Take the "bite" out of school work by displaying Dracula on the class bulletin board. Cover the board with black paper. Place Dracula's face and hands above the board, as shown. Children will be eager to see their papers displayed in such a "fang-tastic!" way.

SPOOKY MURAL

Everyone in class will love adding their own touches to this "spooky" mural. Cover the board with black paper and have children cut haunted houses and flying ghosts from paper. Colored chalk can be used to add details.

GHOST WRITERS

Have students write "ghostly" stories on white paper ghost cut-outs. Display ghosts on the class bulletin board omitting each author's name. Children will have fun guessing the identity of each "ghost" writer.

Fang-tastic Dracula

This Dracula pattern can also be given to each student. Mounted and colored on a large sheet of construction paper, it can display spooky stories in a dramatic way.

Enlarge Dracula for a "fang"-tastic, over the top bulletin board display.

Creative Writing Ghost

Haunted House Pattern

Enlarge this haunted house for a spooky bulletin board display. Children can add the finishing touches, including pumpkins, ghosts and other scary characters at the windows.
