

SANDPAPER ART

This is great because you get the fun effect of sand or glitter art, without the mess!

Here's what you need:

- sandpaper (we used both 60 grit and 100 grit with slightly different results, both cool. The coarser grit just had more defined grains of sand on the finished piece)
- crayons
- white paper
- iron and old thin rag or cloth

Here's what to do:

1. Cut your sandpaper to the size you want your finished piece to be.
2. Using crayons, colour your picture on the sandpaper. You'll want to press pretty hard to get a nice layer of colour. You'll also want to have your picture cover the entire piece of sandpaper, so make sure you colour the background too.
3. Next, put your sandpaper with the picture face up, put your paper on top of the picture and your press cloth on top of that. Using a warm iron, iron over the picture for about 15 seconds.

(If you lift up your cloth and see the melted wax on the paper, it's ready.)

Carefully lift up the paper to reveal your picture...

Draw the crayon nice and thick

Lots of fun and no messy glitter all over your house!
